III. FACTOR LEVELS

Factor 1 - Knowledge Required by the Position

(Level 1-6, 950 points)

Knowledge of the concepts, principles and practices of incident management and support for the full range of fire program logistics techniques in order to, (1) understand the potential threat of fire to the natural resources, private property and the resource values within the geographic area as it applies to logistical resource needs; (2) assimilate this data, set priorities and allocate resources for the protection of those resources and property; (3) prepare for and assess short range functional resource needs based upon fire severity.

Technical knowledge of dispatching methods, practices, and procedures.

Knowledge of 1) interagency (federal, state, and local cooperators) fire preparedness and suppression management policies, practices and procedures; 2) the Incident Command System; 3) the mobilization and demobilization of resources in a multi-jurisdictional environment; 4) tactical and administrative aircraft capabilities and limitations including the pilot and aircraft certification programs, aircraft contracting, and air operations safety; 5) fiscal procedures and diverse Federal and State land management policies and procedures to ensure the most efficient and cost effective management of resources.

Knowledge of disaster preparedness and management operations, including logistical support, incident management, mobilization, interagency coordination, and resource allocation.

Ability to apply sound personnel management skills to include coaching, training, and motivation.

Skill in utilizing computer hardware and specialized applications specific to initial attack dispatching, expanded dispatch, fire suppression, prescribed fire, aviation management and administration.

Ability to effectively communicate orally and in writing with a wide variety of Federal, State and local agencies to negotiate, reach concurrence, and maintain an effective working relationship with cooperators.

Factor 2 - Supervisory Controls

(Level 2-3, 275 points)

Employee works independently under the supervision of the Dispatch Center Manager with delegated authority to act for the Bureau administrators in fire and emergency situations. The Dispatch Center Manager provides overall objectives, expectations, goals, and priorities.

The employee is responsible for developing and implementing specific action plans, resolving problems and conflicts as they arise, and coordinating work with other staff members. Work that may involve a new direction in operating practices, a break with long standing practice, or controversy is discussed and agreed upon with the Dispatch Center Manager.

Completed work is reviewed for adequacy, technical soundness, and accomplishment of specific objectives. The nature of the work requires the employee to commit resources to meet emergency situations. Such commitments can only be reviewed after the fact.

Factor 3 - Guidelines

(Level 3-3, 275 points)

Guidelines are found in interagency manuals and agency specific manuals, handbooks, directives and policy statements. Many guidelines provide only limited general directions and require the development of standard procedures to implement their intent.

The employee has broad latitude for independent action due to the wide range of variables under which the work is accomplished. Each incident is different, and the requirements for safe, timely, cost effective and legal operations given the number and variety of situations encountered in carrying out assignments, requires the employee to adapt or extend guidelines or choose from alternative procedures.

Factor 4 - Complexity

(Level 4-3, 150 points)

The center coordinates movement of all types of resources (government and contracted) in support of emergency incidents. The employee must direct coordination efforts for multiple large incidents as well as new ignitions occurring simultaneously in a variety of fuel types within a large geographic area. In addition to wildfire and other disaster response, the employee also coordinates and plans for activities involving multiple resource programs (e.g., special use public events, wild horse and burro gathers and census, fuels treatment activities, emergency stabilization and rehabilitation, etc.). The employee participates in the plans that authorize and support these activities. The employee analyzes specific situations encountered and selects the most appropriate course of action.

Threats to life, property, and natural resources are commonplace. The employee's decision-making is complicated by the number, size and locations of incidents requiring support, time constraints, priority, risks, availability of resources, and the expenditure of public funds.

Factor 5 - Scope and Effect

(Level 5-3, 150 points)

Assists the Center Manager in the oversight of all dispatch center operations. The center's area of influence encompasses a combination of federal, state, tribal, and private lands which encompasses a very large geographic area.

The purpose of the work is to provide expertise in planning and implementing the coordination and mobilization of resources to incidents threatening life, property, and natural resources. The center provides logistical support to resources assigned to incidents.

Decisions protect human lives, property, and multiple resource values. These decisions often result in the expenditure of large sums of public funds and may have economic, social, political and environmental impacts. The actions of the employee affect the safe and cost-effective accomplishments of interagency aviation and fire management support programs throughout the center's area of influence.

Factors 6 & 7 - Personal Contacts & Purpose of Contacts

(Level 3c, 180 points)

Personal contacts are made with all levels of cooperating land management and emergency support agencies. Primary contacts are with fire suppression personnel, resource specialists and other unit coordinators. Other personal contacts are with national and local news media, contractors, private landowners, local representatives, and the general public.

Contacts are for the discussion of critical emergency services and fire management programs with Federal, State, and local organizations which are often complicated by mixed ownership and complex management responsibilities. This requires tact and persuasion to resolve operating problems with organizations that often have conflicting viewpoints on use of their emergency resources.

Public contacts are designed to inform the parties involved of current land management activities and the efforts being made to protect lives, property, and multiple resource values. Media contacts are designed to inform the general public of the current or predicted fire or emergency situations.

Factor 8 - Physical Demands

(Level 8-1, 5 points)

The work involves long hours of sitting, intense concentration, and working at peak proficiency/intensity levels with irregular breaks and mealtimes. The duties of this position create a highly stressful environment during peak activity, requiring the ability to keep calm in emergency situations. Must be able to cope with the pressure of meeting timeframes and changing priorities. Mental concentration and accuracy are required.

Travel associated with field visits and other administrative travel may be required.

Factor 9 - Work Environment

(Level 9-1, 5 points)

Work is performed primarily in an office setting. During peak activity, increased radio traffic, numerous ringing phones, and conversations result in high noise levels, which require a high level of concentration to perform duties. This creates a high stress work environment.
