

Mitzi Reed
Native American Fish and Wildlife Society

Mitzi Reed is the Invasive Species Coordinator for the Native American Fish & Wildlife Society. She is a member of the Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians, where she served as Director/Biologist of the Choctaw Wildlife and Parks. She brings over 20 years of experience in the environmental and wildlife fields. She received her bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of West Alabama. As the Invasive Species Coordinator, her role will be to develop an Invasive Species Program through engagement with Tribes for input on Invasive Species concerns, provide representation on Tribal interests in national invasive species initiatives, and provide technical assistance to NAFWS member tribes and individual members with an emphasis on invasive species.
