Description:

Disturbance Automated Reference Toolset (DART): Assessing patterns in ecological recovery from energy development on the Colorado Plateau
Product description: When developing oil and gas well pads the vegetation and soil are removed to level the areas for drilling and operations. The new U.S. Geological Survey approach, called the disturbance automated reference toolset or DART, can be used to examine the recovery patterns after well pads are plugged and abandoned to help resource managers make informed decisions for future well pad development. USGS scientists examined oil and gas well pad recovery on the Colorado Plateau that uses satellite imagery to compare vegetation cover of the abandoned sites to surrounding undisturbed areas with roughly equivalent climate, soil, topography and management histories. Findings show that most abandoned oil and gas pads in the study are characterized by more bare ground and less vegetation than surrounding undisturbed areas, even after more than 10 years since abandonment occurred. Different recovery rates across environmental gradients and land stewardship suggest that these can be useful for identifying conditions that may promote or hamper pad recovery. Several ecological settings, including grasslands and warmer areas with more summer precipitation, are not recovering as quickly. Well pads on federally and privately managed lands had the highest recovery rates while state-administered lands had the lowest recovery rate of the ownership entities evaluated. Through active management intervention, or rehabilitation, of vegetation and soils at abandoned well pads has become more common in recent years, additional work could increase the success of these efforts and DART can provide timely assessments to help inform management decisions. Tools to inform restoration decisions and grazing management in the sagebrush ecosystem

Where: Room 6641 or WebEx (details at end under Description)

Description:

USGS briefings a bout tools to inform restoration decisions and grazing management in the sagebrush ecosystem 1. Patterns in Greater Sage-Grouse Population Dynamics Correspond with Public Grazing Records at Broad Scales (Release planned after March 3) Improper livestock management has been implicated in population declines of greater sage-grouse because reductions in vegetation cover may negatively affect sage-grouse reproductive success. However, because few studies have tried to directly link population dynamics of sage-grouse to grazing management across this vast landscape, there is uncertainty in the effects of livestock grazing recommendations in sage-grouse habitats. USGS researchers and colleagues analyzed grazing records from BLM allotments from 2002 to 2012 in sagebrush-dominated rangelands across Wyoming to determine the amount of grazing and when livestock graze in the plant-growth season. They then used annual counts of male sage-grouse from 743 breeding sites, known as leks, during the same period to evaluate whether livestock grazing management actions corresponded with sage-grouse population trends. The scientists found effects of livestock grazing on sage-grouse populations ranged from positive to negative depending on the level of grazing and when grazing occurred during the plant-growing season. Higher levels of grazing occurring early in the growing season was associated with declining sage-grouse population trends, whereas similar levels of grazing that occurred later in the growing season corresponded with sage-grouse population increases. This study revealed the complex interactions among plant growth, when and how much livestock graze, and the resulting effect on wildlife, and also provides information to help sustain ranching while simultaneously sustaining wildlife populations. 2. Restoration Handbook for Sagebrush Steppe Ecosystems with Emphasis on Greater Sage-Grouse Habitat (Released on February 14) The USGS is publishing the final installment of a three-part handbook addressing restoration of sagebrush ecosystems. Land managers face many challenges in restoring sagebrush-steppe landscapes to meet multiple management objectives. Consequently, managers need science-based information to know where, when, and how to implement restoration projects. The new handbook does just that: it describes a sagebrush-steppe habitat restoration framework that incorporates landscape ecology principles and information on resilience to disturbance and resistance to invasive plants across the sagebrush-steppe. Part 1 introduces habitat managers and restoration practitioners to basic information about sagebrush ecology, greater sage-grouse, and restoration ecology of sagebrush-steppe ecosystems. Part 2 provides restoration guidance at the spatial scale of a landscape. Part 3 provides restoration guidance at the site level. All parts are being published as USGS Circulars.  WEBEX INFORMATION  Topic: (12) Sagebrush Tools Briefing Date: Monday February 27, 2017 Time: 1:45 pm, Eastern Standard Time (New York, GMT-05:00) Meeting number: 711 900 252 Meeting password: (This meeting does not require a password.) Video call:

Calendar: Tasha Robbins

Description:

Virginia, Mr. Dawley and Mr. Sole will call your main line number when they arrive the C Street entrance. Tasha, We do anticipate meeting in person at Ms. Johnson's office. The meeting will be with Mr. Joseph (Joe) Dawley, who is Deputy General Counsel of EQT, the Pittsburgh-based company developing the Mountain Valley Pipeline. Mr. Dawley will be accompanied by Michael Sole, VP for Environmental Services of NextEra Energy. NextEra is a major investor in the pipeline. I will not be present for, or calling into, the meeting. Mr. Dawley and Mr. Sole are hoping to use the meeting to bring Ms. Johnson the most current information on the status of the MVP project, and to highlight the roles being played in the project siting process by the National Park Service and Bureau of Lands Management. NPS is involved because the MVP project will cross the Appalachian National Scenic Trail and the Blue Ridge Parkway, each a unit of the National Park System. BLM is involved because, under the Mineral Leasing Act, BLM has authority to issue rights-of-way over federal lands when two or more federal agencies have jurisdiction. There is no BLM land involved with MVP, but the line does cross US Forest Service, Corps of Engineers, and NPS lands. I am happy to provide additional information for Ms. Johnson's use. Please let me know how I might be helpful to her. My cell is (b) (6). My desk number is 202 654 6928. Again, thank you very much for your help and courtesy. Tom Jensen

Description:

In coordination with the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement (OSMRE) and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS), we have prepared the attached recommendation memorandum that describes the preferred option for OSMRE and FWS to comply with the Endangered Species Act (ESA) in a streamlined way that would allow State regulatory authorities and coal companies to obtain incidental take coverage under the ESA for new and existing surface coal mining and reclamation operations. We've also prepared the attached briefing paper that summarizes the plaintiffs' (National Mining Association and Murray Energy Corporation) concerns about the 2016 programmatic biological opinion and the memorandum of understanding between OSMRE and FWS. After you've had an opportunity to read these documents, we suggest scheduling a meeting to discuss the recommendation. If you can not attend the one hour session on May 16, there are two other 90 minute training opportunities we are conducting for other staff and ask that you please notify Jonathan Rosen if you would like to attend one them. Those are May 9 from 1:30 PM to 3:00 PM and May 18 from 10:00 AM to 11:30 AM. All training in the Interior Operations Center (3400 West) I look forward to seeing you at one of the classes and if you have any questions, please let me know. Again, welcome to the team! Estle

DOI Staff Attendees: Kathy Benedetto and Amanda Kaster-Averill Theirattendees:
- Rep. Kevin Cramer - Cody Ortowski - Select EnergyServices, President and COO - Michael Moore - Brown Pruitt, Attorney -Mark Gruman, Chief of Staff to Rep. Cramer - Chris Marohl, SeniorPolicy Adviser to Rep. Cramer - Rob MacGregor, Legislative Director forRep. Pearce (MN-02) They would like to discuss an energy developmentproject in SE New Mexico that 85% of development falls within thejurisdiction of the BLM. Any specifics regarding the energy developmentproject Attached is map that shows the BLM land in SE New Mexico thatthe Delaware Basin sits in. Select's plan(s) consist of constructing upto 50 miles or more of underground water related pipelines through theBLM land and adding storage reservoirs on the BLM land. We have hired aformer BLM official (actually until two to three years ago was working in Dickinson) by the name of Doug Burger as a consultant to help usmake sure we are in complete compliance with the BLM. We are workingwith a team of biologists and surveyors to make sure all impacts areminimized and in complete legal accordance with the BLM. Our completeplans should be submitted within a week or maybe two to the Carlsbadoffice. Doug is going to be assigned an Reality Specialist to workwith. We firmly believe (just like our massive North Dakota projects)that these will be a huge benefit to the environment (millions of water truck trips will be eliminated) and the BLM economics (helpingproducers drive down costs to complete more wells). Further, thisportion of New Mexico (similar to the early days of the Bakken) haveexperienced not only the environmental issues associated with watertrucks but with the accidents/dangers that they have brought(fatalities and news articles have come with it). What we want to do isfrom a high level go over our plans and submittals to the Secretary andit will be phenomenal to have you and your office there to help extolthe success of our projects and the complete Federal compliance that wehave done (COE, USAF, BLM, USFW, etc.). I think having his insight andsupport may help us get through any delays and extra costs that couldultimately kill the projects. We have hired around 100 workers to datein this area and the pipelines and associated projects will likelydouble or even triple that if we can work through on an expeditedmanner from our end. Also, these projects will be a major benefit tothe local Potash mines that will help use what otherwise would be awasted resource and help support jobs on their end.
